

Group Activity

Attire Scenario's

Scenario 1: Networking Event

You are organizing a networking event for professionals from various industries. The networking event takes place in a relaxed and informal setting, a rooftop bar. Attendants will be mingling with professionals from different fields, including potential clients, employers, and colleagues. The goal of the event is to establish connections, exchange ideas, and explore potential collaborations.

Scenario 2: Team-building retreat

You are attending a team-building retreat where you will be working on group activities, problem-solving, and building interpersonal relationships. You will also engage in various activities, such as team challenges, problem-solving exercises, and group discussions. The retreat aims to foster collaboration, boost morale, and strengthen team dynamics.

Scenario 3: Corporate Year-End Gala

You are attending a formal year-end gala organized by your employer. The event is taking place in a grand ballroom. The goal is to celebrate the achievements of the year, network with colleagues, and enjoy an evening of entertainment and good company.

Scenario 4: Job Interview

You are attending a formal job interview for a prestigious company in the financial services industry. The interview will be conducted by a panel of interviewers, and your objective is to impress and convince the interviewers of their qualifications and suitability for the position.

Scenario 5: Business Conference

You are invited to join a two-day business conference event held at a convention center. There will be various sessions, networking with industry professionals, and engaging in panel discussions. The conference aims to provide insights into the latest trends, foster knowledge sharing, and create networking opportunities.

Scenario 6: Team lunch meeting

Your development team is hosting team lunch meeting for Marketing, Sales and Finance departments to discuss important projects and collaborate on decision-making.. The team is meeting at a local restaurant to discuss work-related topics, brainstorm ideas, and make collective decisions.

Scenario 7: Client Meeting

You are employees representing your company in a meeting with a potential client. The meeting takes place at the client's office. The goal is to present the company's services, discuss project requirements, and build a professional relationship with the client.

Scenario 8: Company Training Workshop

You are part of your company's training workshop that is focused on developing leadership skills. The training workshop takes place in a conference room setting. Participants will attend presentations, participate in group activities, and engage in discussions to enhance their skills and knowledge.